Private School Meets with Hostility In Bid to Buy George Cook Residence

The concept of another private school in Princeton did not receive a favorable review when Mercer Christian Academy appeared Monday night at a Planning Board work session for what the board calls "concept review." The term means, in effect, what do you think of our plans?

Not much, was the unanimous opinion of the seven board members present. This doesn't mean the school can't go ahead and file a formal application; it's just an early-warning device.

The board took a more kindly view toward the most recent design for a building to replace the burned-out Value Fair store on Nassau, the location formerly occupied by Farr Hardware and still under control of the Harry Farr estate. The project will go before the board formally at its meeting on Thursday, September 4 (8 p.m., Borough Hall).

W. Bryce Thompson IV and his Nassau Builders did not make a scheduled appearance for preview, but they, too, are on the September 4 agenda.

Mercer Christian Academy wants to buy 20 acres at 830 Lawrenceville Road, in the Township. The property belongs to George R. Cook and includes a house and caretaker's cottage.

For the first year, the Academy would use house and cottage solely for administrative offices and a caretaker. After that, in a $2 million project, it would add new quarters behind the existing Cook house and down the hill from it, for a total of 45,000 square feet and 30 parking spaces.

Founded in 1975 with 16 pupils, the Academy now has 188 in grades kindergarten through nine. Following a policy of adding one grade a year, it would not have enough space in its rented quarters in Central Baptist Church (Ewing) if it added a tenth grade.

Dr. Philip Baltzer, president of the Academy's board, said the school would like to have its junior and senior classes on the Cook property. In six years, he estimated, there would be a maximum of 300 boys and girls in grades seven through 12. In ten or 15 years, there could be 700 children attending the school, he said.

Private schools are a conditional use in the Township but they must meet specified conditions of need, public benefit and so on. It was the Borough's mayor, Robert W. Cawley, who picked up the eraser to wipe out the concept of a new private school.

"How many of your 188 pupils live in Princeton?" he asked sharply. Eight, he was told.

"Why did you pick Princeton?" he continued. Because it's centrally located for students who live in West Windsor, Hightstown, Montgomery, even Pennsylvania, he learned.

"It could just as well be in Lawrence," the mayor remarked. "The Township isn't my municipality, but you're taking property off the tax rolls and I see no public benefit in that; in fact, it's a detriment. Why do we need another school if only eight Princeton children attend? Also, there are traffic and site drainage problems."

Decision on Which Elementary School Will Close Tops Agenda for New Year Starting September 8

In the school year that will start September 8, the big story will be the public discussion about closing one of Princeton's four elementary schools.

Paul Houston, Princeton's superintendent, knows that's the big one for the year, but he has other major programs, projects and ideas in his mind and he talked about them in a pre-Labor Day, pre-opening day interview.

For the superintendent, three major programs are uppermost. In order of importance, as he sees them, they are: the "success-based" school and affirmative action (growing out of last year's report on black students in remedial classes); the incorporation of global education concepts into the curriculum; and moving into a program for the gifted and talented.

There are other excitements for 1980-81: full-day kindergarten, if parents elect it; Princeton's own approach toward state-required sex education; perhaps a revised elementary school "report card;" geared-up computer technology....

Dr. Houston had promised to answer some questions about school closing for both the USE (Using Schools Effectively) and SOS (Save Our Schools) committees, and he outlined in a general way the responses he will make to those two groups.

"We need to re-focus," he began. "The (Joan) Doig report on closing a school said that dollar savings would not be dramatic. We've assumed from that, that money is not the issue in closing a school."

"But in my opinion—and it's only my own opinion—if we don't talk about money, it makes no sense to talk about closing. If we can pay for a 150-student school, and provide all the services a 300-student school would have, there is no educational reason to close."

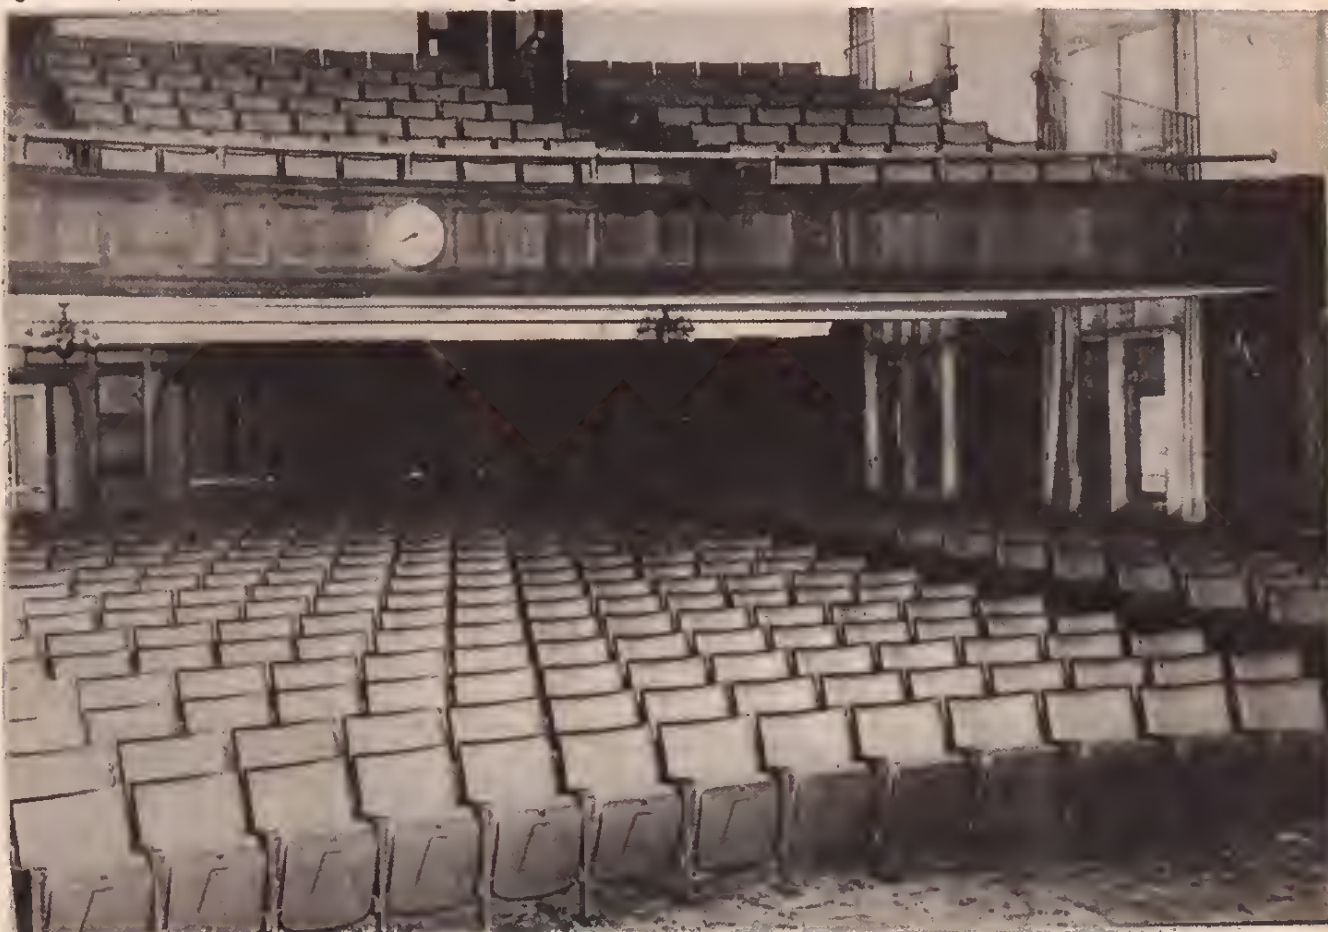

"We must see it as an economic issue with an educational impact. After all, we're going to have financial problems whether we close a school or not. Closing a school gives us, maybe, $150,000—not dramatic, just a little slack in our budget."

It is Dr. Houston's opinion that most people don't understand the impact of the state-imposed cap on a budget. It means, he points out, that in Princeton, a budget can only be raised by three or four percent.

Dr. Houston has found that in terms of education, there is no magic breakpoint—fewer than so many kids, and you should close a school. But as enrollment gets smaller, there are things you must do, and these are things he will explain to both USE and SOS: schools share a nurse, for example, or the library program is cut in half.

Elementary schools have been over-staffed each year, he says, and asks, "How much longer can we do this?" It costs more in Princeton ($150 to $200 per child to educate an elementary school child than it does to educate an upper-school child. This is counter to the usual ratio, and it occurs because of overhead. Whether this overhead would be reduced with the closing of a school, Dr. Houston said is not known. "Overhead," for schools, means heating, secretaries, principals, over-staffing.

If a school is closed in 1981, the Superintendent continues, the school board has only two choices: find a place for the left-over principal, or re-organize again.

With re-organization, he warns, the most junior principal would have to be bumped—John Sakala, of the high school. Dr. Houston recommends keeping the extra principal, and points to at least two principals—Murray Cohen and Eugene Biringer—who have said they have retirement plans. If the floating principal is retained, the saving in closing a school would be reduced by that principal's salary—about $35,000.

Enrollment to Drop. Enrollment this year is expected to be down from last, but there will be a few more pupils than projected, Dr. Houston said. There are, so far, no figures; the schools always pick up some late-arriving families from Princeton University and the Institute for Advanced Study.

That full-day kindergarten, from 8:30 until 2:30, is optional. Parents may sign up for it this fall. Elementary grade report cards may have more emphasis on parent conferences—perhaps three instead of two a year and more time devoted to each one. Dr. Houston would also like to have these report procedures consistent in all four schools.

On the curriculum side, global education will introduce children at all grade levels to other cultures and histories. If the study unit is "The Frontier," for example, children will learn that Brazil and Argentina have frontiers, also.

A "Philosophy for Children" program will be new in upper elementary and lower Middle School. MOPPET—an arts-in-education program—will be new this year also. Groundwork will be laid for a 1981 review of the language arts curriculum.

Computers in Use. At the Middle School, there will be a computer literacy cycle. At the high school, five Apple computers and a time share will be ready to go, and the program will be expanded in years to come.

Dr. Houston's personal response to the state requirement for sex education by 1983 is to start a review of the Family Life-Physical Education program. The sex education in Princeton schools has varied according to the teacher. Dr. Houston wants to relate it to the whole health program, and he sees it, ideally, as a Family Life program.

"Your self, your relationships with your family and others, responsibilities. The whole question of care of your body—drug-abuse prevention, smoking, liquor—we need to do more, here. I'd like to focus on these things, not just take an 'Owner's Manual' approach."

In terms of management, of running the store, the superintendent pointed to the need for administrative reorganization when board secretary William Evans retires at the end of this year; the problems of staffing in 1981-82; encouraging professional growth of the staff and—the budget.

Dr. Houston emphasized his commitment to supervision and evaluation of the staff, relating this to affirmative action and the "success-based" school where every child "has the right to be successful."

Concerned about a narrowing focus, Dr. Houston said he wants to keep the eyes of students on a wider picture: their responsibilities, service to others, conservation, acquiring problem-solving skills, valuing excellence and grasping the fact that, in the superintendent's view, "there are things beyond literacy."

More Than 100 Townspeople Help University Solve Its Bed Shortage with Offer of Rooms

More than 100 townspeople have written to Princeton University offering to help the institution out of its admissions predicament by offering housing to a student. As Leslie C. Vivian says — he's the University's community liaison — "Our popularity created a problem." Last spring, the admissions office found itself in a living nightmare: more students than there were beds.

A letter went out from Dean of the College Joan S. Girus to faculty, staff and alumni living in Princeton, outlining the problem and asking whether the family might consider renting a room, just for this year. She also wrote juniors and seniors to find out whether they would consider living in a private home. The University would prefer to have freshmen and sophomores live on campus.

Results "Encouraging." Not only were the results "very encouraging," Mr. Vivian reports, but townspeople not affiliated with the University read about the problem and offered their help. "I think the most touching response came from people who said they wished they could help, but were too old or had too small a house. I think we had nine or ten letters like this."

At present, there are 25 juniors and seniors and those 100 responses. The housing department's head, S. T. Miller, says the figure of 25 is just about right, and with 100 willing home-owners, there is plenty of room to maneuver.

Mr. Vivian himself, with Coe Evans of the housing department, is talking with home-owners, communicating with students and trying to make a harmonious match.

"Not Brokers." "If we have a student who has traveled widely, we'd try to match that student with someone in town who had been in the foreign service, perhaps. And some families have asked for a female, others for a male."

"But the University isn't in the brokerage business. We're simply agents, bringing two parties together. Negotiations are between the two parties."

Rents, however, aren't supposed to exceed the University's own charge of $1,100 for ten months. Students take their meals on campus.

Mr. Vivian has found home-owners interested in reducing the rent in exchange for yard work, baby-sitting, or general household help, but more than one family has said that rent and housework aren't important — the family just wants to help.

Among students, some are interested because a room in a private home would be quieter than a dormitory. A senior, whose room-mate had left, said she would rather live in a house than have a stranger assigned to her as room-mate.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley has praised the University, and Mr. Vivian in particular, for handling the problem "with limited impact on the community." Mr. Vivian emphasized this week that the housing office was resolving the problem without making use of the usual rental units in town. Mayor Cawley was particularly anxious about lower-cost rentals in the John-Witherspoon and "tree" street neighborhoods.

CHANGE MASTER PLAN?

Amendments Offered. Two amendments to the Master Plan, proposed by the Planning Board, will be on the agenda for public hearing Tuesday, September 9, at 8 p.m. The hearing will be held at Borough Hall, and the public is invited to attend and to comment.

The board is suggesting that the triangle of land bounded by Bayard Lane, State Road and the extension of Mountain Avenue be designated "high density." A residential area, it would be zoned to accommodate lot sizes of 20,000 square feet—about half an acre—and under. Limits would be incorporated into the actual Township zoning ordinance.

The Planning Board feels that the closing of Bayard Lane North, the completion of Community Park North, the extension of Mountain and related traffic designs, make a buffer between a residential zone and the service zone on the east side of State Road.

The board's second proposal is to suggest that the vacant land at the Valley-North Harrison intersection be rezoned for combined residential and professional office use. Several professional offices—for dentists and physicians—are presently farther south on Harrison.

It is the board's view that the area is a good location for such a zoning because it is close to the Medical Center. It could also be acceptable from a traffic point of view, the board has said, if access were one-way. It has also been suggested in the past as a desirable location for either small-lot, moderately-priced houses, or apartments.

Copies of the amendments are available in Borough and Township Halls, the office of the Planning Board in the Valley Road Building and in the public library.

MOVING AHEAD ON CBD
Toward September Presentation. Aiming for a September presentation to the Planning Board, Borough Council met Tuesday for the first discussion of the Central Business District Plan and the zoning ordinances that will be required to implement it.

Fewer restrictions on housing in the CBD will be one element in the new plan. These relaxations may take the form of reduced requirements for open space or allowing a greater floor-area ratio for residential units.

It is also possible that developers will be allowed a bonus in the form of additional floor space, if they agree to help with certain amenities. A developer might, for example, extend the present Chambers Walk farther east into the CBD, or agree to contribute to the plaza that is planned for the Witherspoon Street side of the library parking lot.

The Borough will also need a new parking ordinance related to a parking garage. It is expected that a developer who uses the parking garage to fulfill parking requirements would have to make a dollar contribution of some kind, perhaps in terms of leasing spaces or in other ways, still to be worked out.

TWO ARE INJURED
When Car Strikes Pole. A driver and her passenger were injured early Saturday morning when their car failed to round a curve on Brookstone Drive and struck a pole near Wendover Drive.

The driver, Maria J. Ellis, 20, 25 Palmer Square, sustained severe lacerations and her passenger, Pamela Kulsrud, 20, a concussion and lacerations. Both were treated at Princeton Medical Center. Their 1978 sedan was a total loss.

Doctor, Wife Sued by Woman Who Says Their Daughter Took Over $100,000 in Jewelry and Silverware While Babysitting

A Princeton physician and his family have been sued by a Princeton-Kingston Road resident who is seeking restitution of $106,542—the value of silverware and jewelry the family's daughter allegedly stole from the victim's home in August, 1979.

In her suit, Lois Etz, a widow with two daughters, 9 and 10, charges that Joanne Paul, 18, of 220 Wendover Drive, stole the jewelry while she was employed as a babysitter on four separate occasions. At the time of the alleged thefts, Miss Paul was a 17-year old juvenile and when details of the items that were reportedly taken from the Etz home were released, her name as a suspect was withheld from publication because of her age.

The Etz suit requests that restitution be made by Miss Paul's parents, Dr. George Paul and his wife, Beverly, since they "knew or should have known of the (juvenile) defendant's propensity to commit such wrongful acts."

Township police report that they were not notified of the theft until November 15, 1979. When asked why it took so long before she was aware of the robbery, Mrs. Etz said that it was not appropriate to wear diamonds and fancy jewelry to work (she is director of purchasing for Mercer County Community College) and, therefore, her jewelry was not accounted for on a daily basis.

By the time the Township Juvenile Officer, Det. Jerry Offredo, who conducted the police investigation, was able to first interview the defendant, she had turned 18 in December. Because of the amount involved, Det. Offredo tried to have the case elevated to an adult court but was told that was possible only if a violent crime had been committed.

According to the police report, Miss Paul admitted taking the jewelry and silverware from the Etz home at 1038 Princeton-Kingston Road. She was sentenced to one year's probation and ordered to pay $20 a week restitution for one year. Mrs. Etz reported that she has been receiving checks from the probation department for several weeks.

She was critical of the sentence, however, saying it was "out of synch" with what was accomplished. The $106,000 loss, she said, represented five times her annual salary. Because most of the jewelry and silver were not insured, Mrs. Etz reported that she expects to receive only $11,000 from her insurance company.

Det. Offredo reported in April that nine pieces of custom-made jewelry valued at $96,000 were taken, 11 pieces of sterling silver flatware with a market value of $10,452 and two Tiffany ash trays.

One ring was returned by the suspect; nothing else has been recovered.

Youth Charged In Two Thefts. A 15-year old Township resident was charged last week by Det. Offredo with larceny and possession of stolen property, which was allegedly taken from two homes in the eastern section of the Township.

The youth, taken into custody at his home, has since been placed in the Mercer County Youth House to await action by a Juvenile Court. During processing at police headquarters, he was found to be in possession of marijuana and was also charged with possession of under 25 grams of a controlled dangerous substance.

Jewelry, old coins and a tape recorder were the principal items taken from the two homes, Det. Offredo said.

Of $3,800 in jewelry reported stolen by one home, police have recovered all except a $400 ring. The second home listed items valued at $4,972 missing, of which police have recovered $1,055. "We're still looking for more jewelry and old coins," said Det. Offredo.

There was no break-in in either home. "These are larcenies," Det. Offredo said. His investigation is continuing.

MERCHANT ASSAULTED

And Robbed. A middle-aged man, who police said has a business in the Witherspoon Street area, was viciously assaulted and robbed of $260 Sunday afternoon while he was unloading equipment.

The victim was approached by a man who told him to hand over his money. At the same time, police said, he was struck on the head and about the face with a concrete slab. He was admitted to the intensive care unit at Princeton Medical Center for facial cuts and possible concussion.

Police were called at 4:32 by a pedestrian who reported a man, bleeding and incoherent, sitting on steps to a storage area on Witherspoon Street. Sgt. Peter Hanley responded and Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Officer Michael Taylor later found the victim's wallet in a storm drain at Witherspoon and Lytle Streets.

Det. Gerald Patterson is continuing the investigation. Police declined to reveal a description of the suspect.

FIGURINES TAKEN
Valued at $615. Three Hummel figurines with a combined value of $615 were stolen last week from Expressions Ltd. in the Princeton Shopping Center. Owner Arthur Jackson told police that a well-dressed man had come into the store and asked if they had any Hummel pieces. After he was told where they were located, he went to look at them and then left, Mr. Jackson said.

The next day, when his wife went to redecorate the window, she noticed them missing. The missing figurines were entitled, "Mischief Maker," a little boy sitting on a fence; "Surprise," a girl looking up at a little boy; and "Friends," a little girl with a deer.

Pool Schedule Revised

The suspect was described as 30 to 35, six feet tall, 170 to 175 pounds, with sandy hair, wearing a grey business suit and carrying a briefcase.

Four tires and rims with a combined value of $400 were stolen last week from a Jeep Wagoneer at a construction site on Greenbrier Row. The theft was reported by Raymond Conover of Conover & Sons, Hightstown, who told police the vehicle was used only for general construction work. The theft was discovered Thursday morning.

A black moped valued at $681 was taken last week from an unlocked garage on Parkside Drive. The victim told police that the moped's ignition had been locked and that it had a chain lock through the rear wheel.

VOLUNTEERS CITED
By Cancer Society. Citing the work of more than 600 volunteers, the Mercer County Unit of the American Cancer Society has announced that it reached its goal of $125,000 for its 1980 fundraising effort.

Among the volunteers cited for exceeding their community goals were Catherine Edelman and Jamie Bonini in Princeton; Joan Druckman and Jean Jacobsohn in West Windsor; Mary Tanner in Lawrence Township; and Betty Troike in Hopewell Township. Credit also was given to Carol Stewart and Hope Gray, who came within a small amount of meeting the goal set for Hopewell Borough.

Joseph L. Weber, president of the Mercer County Unit, said that persons interested in volunteering for future Cancer Society programs should call 394-5000.

I SAY IT'S MURDER: Christopher Beumer (far right) as a police lieutenant listens while his colleague (Peter Dolotta) questions a woman (Elizabeth Carothers) who says she has seen a murder. The meld, played by Joanne Epply, watches from the rear. "Night Watch," a Princeton Summer Theatre thriller, is being held over and will play this Thursday-Sunday at Murray Theatre.

RUN EXTENDED
For "Night Watch."
Everybody loves a good murder mystery, Summer Theatre says, and capacity audiences for "Night Watch" seem to have proved the point.

Summer Theatre is announcing the extension of the run of "Night Watch" to include a third week.

Final playing dates are this Thursday through Sunday with curtain time at 8 and a low-price Sunday matinee at 2:30. The place, of course, is Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. Reservations may be made at 452-8181.

Millie Massey and Len Galla, veterans of previous summer productions, are featured in "Night Watch," and newcomer Elizabeth Carothers brings a new face to the cast. The play combines McCarter to design the clothes for the opening repertory. Lighting will be by New York designer Frances Aronson.

"Moby Dick Rehearsed" will be director William Woodman's first return to McCarter Theatre since he directed "Much Ado about Nothing," a production which originated at the Goodman Theatre in Chicago, played McCarter and then moved to the Annenberg Center in Philadelphia. Last year found Mr. Woodman at the Denver Theatre Center, where he directed a successful production of "Moby Dick Rehearsed."

In June, Nagle Jackson braved the Texas heat wave to direct a production of "Taming of the Shrew" in

NEW SEASON NEARS
At McCarter. Construction of the set and costumes for McCarter Theatre's opening repertory productions, "Taming of the Shrew" and "Moby Dick Rehearsed" is already under way, Nagle Jackson, Artistic Director, said this week.

Philadelphia designer Daniel Boylen worked through the summer with Mr. Jackson, who will direct "Taming of the Shrew," and William Woodman, director of "Moby Dick Rehearsed," on a design which will transform McCarter's stage into a western saloon at the time of the Gold Rush, setting for "The Shrew," and, on alternate nights, the decks of the whaling ship "The Pequod," the home of Captain Ahab during his pursuit of the white whale.

Elizabeth Covey, who designed the costumes for last season's offering of "The Miser," has returned to Dallas. One Dallas critic commented that "Shakespeare has seldom been funnier, prettier or more sensible ... Nagle Jackson's inventive staging of the familiar comedy "The Taming of the Shrew" in a western saloon is a thorough delight and will be long remembered."

"The Shrew" will begin previews on September 30 and open on October 3. "Moby Dick Rehearsed" will begin previews October 7 and will open October 10. The two plays will continue in repertory through November 9.

Subscriptions to the full drama series are on sale now. The other plays on the series are an adaptation of Charles Dickens' classic tale, "A Christmas Carol"; a new play, "Eminent Domain," by Percy Granger, set in a university; "Custer" by author-actor Robert Ingham, which gives a new look at the controversial historical character; and the sparkling romp, "The Play's the Thing" by Ferenc Molnar.

Center section orchestra seats are sold out for most performances but many other seats remain, particularly for the theatre's three new series: two pre-dinner twilight series on Saturdays at 4:30 and a Thursday matinee series at 2:30. The box office is open between noon and 6, Monday through Friday, or a brochure may be obtained by writing Subscription Office, McCarter Theatre, 91 University Place, Princeton, or by calling 921-8370 between noon and 6, Monday through Friday.

'FUNNY GIRL' NEXT

At Bucks County Playhouse. Geri Tallone will have the title role in "Funny Girl" at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Pa. from September 3 through 14.

The Jule Styne, Bob Merrill musical, based on the early life of the late comedienne, Fanny Brice, will star Ms. Tallone and Jack Maloney as Fanny Brice and Nick Arnstein, the roles created on Broadway by Barbra Streisand and Sydney Chaplin. "Funny Girl" is set in New York at the turn of the century, in the days of the great Florenz Ziegfeld and contains such memorable songs as "If A Girl Isn't Pretty," "People," "I'm the Greatest Star," "You Are Woman," "Sadie Sadie," and "Don't Rain On My Parade." Geri Tallone won raves for her recent portrayal of Aldonza in "Man of La Mancha" at the Playhouse.

Other leading roles are played by Carol Stretch, who portrays Rosie Brice; Jim Rothwell, who plays Eddie Ryan; Norman Cary, who plays Florenz Ziegfeld; and Penny Vine, who will be Mrs. Strakosh.

Lerner and Loewe's "Camelot" is the current show at the Playhouse through Sunday. The leading role of King Arthur is played by Jack Maloney, who has starred Successful Season Ends.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The final curtain draws to a close as Princeton Street Theatre wraps up another successful summer season of entertainment.

Our tenth summer was filled with excitement and success. With a new mobile stage and plenty of enthusiasm, Street Theatre generated excitement and support wherever it went.

The production this summer, "Play It Again, Sam" and "The Best of Fractured Fairy Tales," drew audiences like never before. The community was very supportive of our cause which made our purpose much easier to fulfill.

The weather was excellent, the crowds were large, the performances were great and the community was filled with interest and enthusiasm.

Princeton Street Theatre would like to say a very special thanks to all the people who became involved and helped make this summer a very good one!

Boys" when it opened on Broadway in 1969.

Stadlen's "Groucho!" is an intimate reminiscence of the people, places and events that framed the times and career of Groucho from his earliest days in Burlesque, on Broadway, in Hollywood and on television as the host of "You Bet Your Life." The script is based on actual comments made by the late comedian. Nancy Evers appears with Stadlen as Emily Schmalhausen, the "Margaret Dumont dowager" character, and accompanies him on the piano and in duets.

Tickets are $5 for adults; $2.50 for MCCC students and alumni with valid ID, senior citizens and children under 12. For more information or reservations, call the box office at 586-4695.

Bogus Survey on Sex-Oriented Questions Is Being Made Here by Phony Researcher

An individual using the name of "Nelson" or "Neilsen" has been calling a number of households in Princeton, Princeton Junction and Twin Rivers and representing himself as a Princeton University researcher conducting a survey.

Alerted by several telephone complaints and a letter addressed to President William G. Bowen, the University said the "survey" appears to be a hoax.

Michael Beahan, Princeton's assistant director of communications, stated that Princeton has no "Professor Nelson" or "Neilsen" who is conducting such research, nor is there any "Kelsey Survey," the title given to the project by the bogus surveyor. "The caller seems to favor the 799 telephone exchange," Mr. Beahan said, "and has been asking his female respondents a number of sex-oriented questions."

Those receiving such calls should report them to the police department in which they live, Mr. Beahan said.

Boarding students in all grades will register on Sunday, September 7, from 2-4.

All new students and parents are invited to an evening orientation program in the school auditorium on Sunday, September 7, from 7 to 7:45, to meet school administrators and to learn more about special programs.

CLASSES SCHEDULED For Diabetics. The Department of Community Health Services at The Princeton Medical Center will conduct a series of classes for diabetics, their families and friends.

It consists of a series of four weekly classes which describe what diabetes is, the need for a diabetic diet, the diabetic gourmet, and oral medications or insulin.

Classes will begin Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hospital Unit Meeting Rooms. For more information, call 734-4626.

YWCA TO HOLD CLINIC
The YWCA will sponsor a free learn-to-swim clinic from Monday, September 8, through Thursday, September 11, at the YM-YWCA building on Paul Robeson Place. All ages are invited to learn basic swim skills and how to relax and enjoy the water.

No membership is required, and there is no fee for these four classes. Individuals may join any of the classes on a walk-in basis. YWCA Aquatics Director Marianne Jasein hopes to encourage non-swimmers, from children to seniors, to make swimming their sport, and to familiarize themselves with the pool and instructional facilities at the YWCA.

Nursery accommodations will be available for the clinic at $4 for four days. Nursery reservations must be made before September 4 by calling 924-4825.

VISITOR NOT WELCOME

Charged With Trespassing. Twenty-two year old Robert Koether, 49 Leavitt Lane, was not welcome when he visited a home on the east end of Nassau, Street Friday afternoon.

He was charged with defiant trespassing and simple assault of a person inside the house, after police said that he literally smashed in the front door. Arrested by Sgt. Peter Hanley and Officer Michael Taylor, Koether was later released in $250 bail. He faces a court hearing here September 17.

Unruly and Disorderly. Stephen McShane, 30, no known address, was arrested late Saturday night at Nassau and Witherspoon streets and placed in custody for a contempt of court violation.

The following night, after a hearing before Judge Philip Carchman, McShane disrobed and stuffed his clothing down the toilet in his cell in Borough Jail. He became unruly and disorderly, police said.

A half hour later he was transported to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $200 bail. Earlier this summer, McShane had been arrested when he took off all his clothes in the Nassau Christian Center.

FOUR SPEEDERS FINED

In Borough Court. Four Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court for speeding.

They are Teunis Eversen, Hollow Road, Skillman, $23; Michael N. Mowry, Pennington, $23; Joan Michlin, 230 Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck, $20; and Ronald Lusen, 30 Vandeventer Avenue, $25. Tim Jones and Mark Jones, both of 13 Colonial Avenue, Princeton Junction, were each fined $15 for no lights on their bicycles.

Ossie M. Counts, Sunset Road, paid $30, unlicensed vehicle and $15 for an overdue inspection, while Anthony Bailey, 103 Witherspoon, was fined $30 as an unlicensed driver.

SHOPLIFTERS THWARTED

By Customer. For a typical method of operation used by shoplifters, Chief Michael Carnevale described an attempted theft Friday in a Witherspoon Street store.

An adult couple accompanied by a child entered the store. While the man was looking at merchandise, the woman went into the dressing room and the youngster served as a lookout. Often a clerk is alone in the store, Chief Carnevale said.

This time the clerk was lucky. As she was watching the woman, a customer saw the man take a number of articles of clothing and conceal them. When she confronted him, Chief Carnevale reported, the man put the merchandise down and all three left the store.

860 TO ATTEND

Princeton Day This Fall. Eight new teachers will join the faculty when Princeton Day School opens the 1980-1981 academic year with a near capacity enrollment of 860 students comprised of 481 boys and 379 girls in grades Kindergarten through twelve. In addition, two teachers will return to PDS after one-year absences. Several new appointments were also revealed.

Headmaster Douglas O. McClure has announced that Harry Rulon-Miller, a teacher at the school for 15 years and an alumnus of Princeton Country Day School, Class of '51, has been appointed Assistant Head of the Middle School.

Mr. Rulon-Miller will continue to teach mathematics in the Middle School as well as coach the Boys' Varsity Ice Hockey Team. Mr. McClure also announced that Thomas Malsbury has been named Head of the Boys' Physical Education Department. He had been serving as Acting Head for the past year.

There will be the traditional orientation Monday, September 8 at 10 for the ninth grade and all new Upper School students, and open house for new students and parents in the Lower and Middle Schools at 2:30 the same day. Classes begin Tuesday, September 9 for the Upper and Middle Schools and on Wednesday, September 10, for the Lower School.

THEFT REPORT

Vending Machines Hit. Three soda vending machines on the Princeton University campus were pried open Sunday and an unknown amount of money taken from the coin boxes.

Police said machines were rifled at the Engineering Quad, New South Hall and Green Hall. A $45 AM-FM clock radio was taken Monday from a room in the Princeton Inn College. There was no forced entry.

Also on Monday, a 10-speed bicycle valued at $350 was stolen from a post on Greenholm Drive where it had been chained. The chain had been cut, police said.

During the short time a car had pulled up to Nassau Inn Friday evening and its occupants were inside, someone removed one of two suitcases from a luggage rack on top of the car. Police said that the suitcase and the clothing inside were valued at $400.

A Witherspoon Street resident called police to report the theft of a $50 battery from her car while it was parked on Witherspoon, and another Princeton resident notified police that his 1973 car had been stolen early in the morning while parked on Clay Street. It was found more than three hours later, at 4:20 a.m., by a police patrol on Spruce Street with the keys still in the ignition.

When the owner of a Spring Street store was involved with a customer last week, someone, police report, removed a wallet from a desk drawer containing $2 and ID cards. It was later recovered on Route 1 in Penns Neck.

MAN ARRESTED

Charged with Drug Sales. Colin Wilson, 22, 153 Witherspoon Street, was arrested Friday morning in his apartment and charged with distributing drugs to juveniles near the Woodrow Wilson fountain on Washington Road.

An arrest warrant for distribution of narcotics and a search warrant were executed at 7:10 a.m. by Detectives Gerald Patterson and William Fitch and Ptl. Randy Sutton. Seized during the raid, according to the Chief Michael Carnevale, was a "substantial quantity" of marijuana, packaging materials and about $1,000 in cash. Chief Carnevale described the amount of marijuana as one to two pounds.

Taken to Mercer County Jail in lieu of bail, Wilson was charged with possession of more than 25 grams of marijuana, possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute and with resisting arrest.

He is scheduled to appear in Borough court September 17. His apprehension, Chief Carnevale said, was the result of an investigation by Borough police.

PANELISTS SOUGHT

By "Youth Speaks Up."

Former panelists of "Youth Speaks Up," a Princeton-based radio series, are being sought by Youth Communications Inc., the non-profit organization which produces and administers the program.

Past participants in any of Youth Communications' programs—"Youth Speaks Up," Basic Politics Seminar, Urban Journalism Workshop—are asked to contact YCI if a search letter was not recently received by mail. These persons, and others with information or inquiries, should address the YCI Alumni Association, in care of Youth Communications Inc., 120 John Street, Princeton.

"Youth Speaks Up" achieved national recognition ten years ago when it was named by the American Legion as the best local radio program in the interest of youth in the United States. The series, co-sponsored by Youth Communications and Nassau Broadcasting Company, is in its 18th year and may be heard over Trenton Station WPST-FM at 8:30 Sunday mornings.

SIGMUND TO WASHINGTON

For Ceremonies at White House. Mercer County Freeholder Board President Barbara Sigmund went to the White House on Tuesday to witness the signing of a Proclamation for Women's Equality Day by President Jimmy Carter. The ceremony was followed by a briefing on women's issues given by Sarah Weddington and other officials in the Carter administration.

"I am pleased," said Mrs. Sigmund, "to be able to bear witness on such a momentous day to the accomplishments of President Carter in promoting equality for women. By his landmark number of appointments of women to key administrative posts and to federal judgeships, he has effectively demonstrated a very real commitment to 'upward mobility' for women," Mrs. Sigmund continued.

"The Carter presidency," she explained, "has been marked from its very beginning by a deep sense of concern for those economic issues which deeply and directly affect women."

Mrs. Sigmund, a Princeton resident, is serving her second term as the first woman president of the Mercer County Board of Freeholders.

School's Plan Opposed

Neighbors opposed to the school said, through attorney Samuel Lambert III, that they would oppose the project "to the full extent of our abilities."

They listed sewer access, drainage problems, the large Johnson estate across the road, "severe" traffic on the Lawrenceville Road, and their own property values as reasons for their opposition.

"Kids are kids—they might throw stones at my horses," protested Mrs. Ferdinand White, whose Mercer Road property backs up to the Cook land.

Size of Area Questioned. Board members also questioned whether the property was large enough for the projected student body.

The new "Farr" building will be a two-story structure in what was described to the board as "neo-colonial design, rather like Hulit's Shoe Store." Hulit's is the next-door neighbor.

Barbara Sigmund

The street level, with the same 3,000-square-foot area as Value Fair, will be for retail use. The second story, larger with its cantilever over the Hudibras Restaurant entrance, will have 3,800 square feet.

The burned-out store had no rear second story, and only about 800 square feet in front. The new second floor will not be divided until there is a tenant whose plans can be followed. "Interest has been expressed," said a Farr estate spokesman.

At the board's September 4 meeting, the estate will request a variance from the Borough's floor-area ratio in the Central Business District. The ordinance specifies 1.5, and the new building has around 1.7 (A FAR of 1.5 means a building may occupy one and one-half times the area of the lot).

LET'S TALK ABOUT

AUTUMN PLANTING

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

This is a good time to think about planting trees and shrubs. If you do plan to add one or two trees to your property, here are some hints and warnings!

Choose a tree according to it's fall foliage colors in the nursery. The color it takes on in late September will be the same for the rest of it's life.

Be sure to prepare the soil outside the hole where the root ball will be placed. The clay soil in the Mercer County area is very unresponsive to new trees; it requires breaking up and aeration to promote new root growth after planting.

Mix a good tree food into the loosened soil, include some compost, peat moss, or forest humus. Do not use lawn fertilizer!

Plant the new tree at exactly the same ground level that it enjoyed in the nursery...never any more than an inch deeper. Transplanted roots need to breathe air.

Soak the soil thoroughly with water every ten days, whether or not there is regular rainfall.

Never plant a medium or large tree species within fifteen feet of a building foundation...Avoid placement near sidewalks, driveways and utility trenches in the ground.

Be sure that the nursery supplies a good amount of soil (root ball) around the roots of the tree. The ball should be ten times the diameter of the trunk.

SPECIAL NOTE: Until the day-long rains of autumn start, be sure that you get plenty of water to the roots of your trees. Thunder showers may green up lawns, but with our soil, it takes hours to penetrate to root areas! This summer's drought has put such severe stress on our trees, that extra-special effort is mandatory!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

Not many football fans realize that a young quarterback set an ALL-TIME National Football League passing record last season ... QB Steve DeBerg of San Francisco completed 347 passes last year — and no other quarterback in the entire history of the NFL ever completed that many in one season ... DeBerg broke the record held by Fran Tarkenton.

Did you know that a baseball player once led a major league in batting one season — yet, oddly enough, he never hit a home run that year? ... Rod Carew led the American League in batting in 1972 but never hit a homer all season.

Inquire about our special Major Medical Insurance Policy with a $10,000 deductible and a $250,000 limit.

To fully appreciate how much money some ball players are making today, consider this: If pitcher Nolan Ryan of the Astros, who's earning a reported 1-million dollars a year, received his pay once a week during the baseball season, he'd get a check, before deductions, of over $38,000 every week.

Early Development of Defensive Ability Key To Princeton's Success in Ivy Football Race

Frank Navarro has no hesitation in defining the toughest problem he and his staff will have to solve when Princeton University's pre-season football practice begins this weekend. "We are weak around the perimeter of the defense," he points out, noting that "while our graduation losses were not high, we lost some very good players we are going to have to replace."

You can tell, too, that he has his eyes set on the difficult opener at Ithaca on September 20, where Cornell's Bob Blackman will be waiting with a collection of fast running backs deployed on brand new Astroturf. Several of these were injured last fall, and their absence was felt in the Red's 26-14 loss to the Tigers. Navarro's rebuilding defensive unit will have its hands full trying to stop Cornell, whose attack—even on the first day of the season—is sure to reflect some of the veteran Blackman's penchant for springing the unexpected.

The Princeton seniors who departed last June included a two-year letterman, Steve Rowles, who started at left end for his last 18 games; one of the cornerbacks, Dan Bennewitz, and both safeties, Mark Goldstrom and Dave Chandler. Their contributions were sizeable to the overall ability of the Tigers to blank Dartmouth and Columbia, hold Harvard to a lone touchdown and add Penn and Cornell to their list of victims for the best season the Tigers have had in a decade.

Now they must be replaced, and the caliber of the opponents on the first third of the schedule makes bringing the new personnel along slowly out of the question. After Cornell, it will be Rutgers at New Brunswick and then Brown—a co-favorite for the 1980 title with Yale—in the Palmer Stadium opener.

Depth Appears Lacking. Princeton can start a letterman at each of the four positions over which Navarro is concerned, but after moving his most experienced 1979 reserves into the front lines, he will look entirely at sophomores. When the end sweeps begin, and the passes start to fly, sophomores in their first few varsity games begin to find out in a hurry what life is all about.

The Tigers can move a letterman into the starting position at left end, as Rowles' successor, and still have a letter-winner as his backup. The choice at the moment is senior Rick Baer, 6-0, 210, who has seen considerable action with the junior varsity over the past two seasons, with Rick Wise, a 5-10, 205-lb. junior in reserve. An occasional replacement for Rowles last fall, Wise is also a soccer-style placekicker who will get a shot at handling those duties this season.

Taking over for Bennewitz at one of the cornerback posts will be Henry Milligan, a sufficiently versatile athlete that he is a regular in both wrestling and baseball and is accordingly, one of the very few three-sport students in Princeton. Milligan should excel: he started the last four games in 1979 when Bennewitz was injured, tackling well and contributing three pass interceptions. He is also used on punt returns.

Both the safeties this year saw considerable reserve duty last fall and the Tigers will be well staffed when they are on the field. Chris Boudreau will move into the strong safety assignment—where he was playing last November when he picked off a Yale pass on the Princeton eight and ran it back for the longest touchdown on an interception in Princeton history.

Big Play Against Cornell. Moran, a ball carrier like Milligan, should inherit the free safety spot in his junior year. It was his punt return for 65 yards in the final game of the season that dug the Orange and Black out of a 14-6 deficit against Cornell and set the stage for the eventual 26-14 victory.

After those personnel moves have been made, the Tiger coaching staff will be looking at sophomores. Navarro thinks eventually there will be some good ones, but then he considers the rugged going in the early schedule, and he knows why the defensive perimeter is his no. 1 problem.

After Baer and Wise at left end, there is one of the top prospects in the Class of 1983-6-2, 205-lb. Gary Grass. A resident of North Miami, Fla., Grass is testimony to the far broader base that Princeton recruiting has established in the sport in the last three years.

Half a dozen sophomores who will be groomed for the defensive secondary are, too. Joe Warnement and Kevin Williams come from football-rich Ohio; Dave Rudd and Chuck Serafino from Darrell Royal country in Texas; Jeff Detwiler from Michigan and Tom Barnett from Long Island. Two of them are currently as high as second on the depth chart, and Navarro thinks most or all of these six will make measurable contributions by the time the season is well under way.

Six Starters Back. There will be a number of well-above average players on this defensive unit to provide poise and maturity. One of the best will be at right end—co-captain Paul Van Pelt. This 6-0, 200-lb. senior is a solid bet for All-Ivy honors.

Golf Tournament Planned

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual Golf Tournament at Springdale Golf Club on Thursday, September 8.

Chamber members and their guests will meet for lunch at noon; tee off times will be between 12 and 2. Dinner will be served at 7 at which time prizes and trophies will be awarded. One of the prizes, a silver bowl, has been donated by John Monteleone & Associates. Entries close on Monday, September 15, and are limited to 90 participants. All-inclusive cost is $45 per person. For more information and reservation forms, call the Chamber office at 921-7676.

The front four will also include senior Steve Hart, a 240-lb. tackle who has started all but the first two games of his sophomore year, and classmate Bob McNulty, a standout 235-lb. at nose guard who was high in the defensive statistics last year in tackles, fumble recoveries and quarterback sacks.

A highly-promising junior, 235-lb. Jono Helmerick, will pair with Hart at tackle, after having been the top lineman on his freshman team and seeing action as a reserve in every game last year behind Matt McGrath. An Oklahoma product, Jono was a prime target of Brown and Yale recruiters before making Princeton his choice.

The starting linebackers are holdovers, junior Phil Prosapio and classmate Scott Wright, back from an injury that caused him to miss a number of games in 1979. Joe Clark, Wright's replacement last fall, will battle him for the job to provide welcome depth.

The lone returning starter in the secondary is senior John Kistler, a two-year letterman who played in all nine games as a sophomore and started every contest last season. He will, in effect, be the "field captain" for the deep backs this year.

Fortunately for the Tigers, defensive skills develop faster than those requisite to a successful offense. If they can progress to the point where Princeton is no worse than 1-1 in the Ivy standings on October 11, the day it plays Columbia at Baker Field, a second straight shot at the league title will be within sight.

—Donald C. Stuart

NEW SEASON AHEAD

For Princeton Soccer Club. The Princeton Soccer Club will start a 15-game season in mid-September under second-year coach Abdollah M. Moghanaki.

The team—for players 17 and older—is currently holding scrimmages Monday nights at 6 at the John Witherspoon School field. Those interested in playing are invited to attend a Monday session for more information.

Home games during the season are played Sundays at 2 at the JWS field. In the past seven years, the Princeton team has won two league championships and finished second three times.

Moghanaki, a former international player, is assistant varsity coach at the Hun School, a position he has held for the past three years. He has received no little assistance from the Baldino family of 211 Valley Road. Vince is the team manager while Louis, Cirro, Tony and John have given their time in various ways to help build the team's standing in the state.

ONE MORE TIME

Conte-Staats Champion. For the fifth time in the past eight years, Conte-Staats is the playoff champion of the Princeton Meo's Softball League.

Conte's, champions of the A Division, polished off Corinthian Square Club, the B Division champion, two straight last week when it won the second of a best-of-three series, 5-3. A two-run homer by right center Paul McKenna and some fine defensive play paved the way for pitcher Jeff Grover, who notched his second playoff win.

"It was nice to come back," commented team head Rob Staats. Last season for the first time in ten, Conte-Staats had failed to make the championship playoff, bowing out in the semi-finals. "Everybody felt 'that was it' for Conte's," recalled Staats, who managed the team for the first half and then turned the reins over to Walt Brower.

"Walt did a good job," said Staats, who manages teams in other leagues. "We were going to make the switch next year anyway so we just decided to do it a little earlier."

After C-S had taken a 3-0 lead in the fourth, C Sq. C came right back to tie it and would have gone ahead except for a diving, two-out catch by McKenna in deep right center that robbed Bobby King of a home run.

Later in the game, with C Sq. C runners on second and third, Conte second baseman Ray Clark made a fine back-handed grab of a smash that saved two more runs. That's the way the game progressed — C Sq. C placing runners in scoring position and Conte's making the defensive plays to keep it from scoring — until the bottom of the sixth.

with a single for Conte's and went to second on an over-throw. Staats, batting for McKenna who had injured himself, flied to right. McVaugh tagged up, rounded third, and scored when he forced a throw. Brower then got on via an error and came home with an insurance run when Doug Drake singled.

Grover then set the losers down in order and Conte's had its fifth playoff title. In the previous eight years, no other team has won more than one.

TITLE TO SWEENEY
In Seniors at Springdale. Jack Sweeney won the annual Men's Senior's Tournament at Springdale Golf Club last weekend when he shot a 79-81-160 to win by two strokes.

Walter Hankin was the runner up.

Sweeney, who once toured the Springdale layout in 65 for one of the lowest scores ever recorded on the 6,380-yard course, nailed down his victory with a birdie 3 on the 383-yard 18th. He downed a 14-foot putt to assure his two-shot margin. Hankin was the defending champion, and had also won in 1976 and 1978.

Bill Pearce was the winner in the 55-59 bracket, carding a net 36-hole score of 139 with a handicap of 20. The 60-64 age group was won by George Kellner, who also plays at 20, with a net of 141.

"And Jenny wants to name one after you, Uncle Ralph."

Calling the puppy "Ralph" is a good excuse to call Uncle Ralph.

But you don't really need an excuse. You see, calling for even the smallest reason can make someone feel good in a big way.

But that's not all.

A long distance call is surprisingly inexpensive. And it costs even less at night or on weekends.

So go ahead. Phone your family or friends.

And don't wait around until an excuse to call jumps into your lap.

Reach out and touch someone.

SHAKE-UP REPORTED

At New Jersey Monthly. Whenever one magazine writes about another, the news is almost always negative. That proved to be the case last month when New Jersey Reporter, the Vandevanter Avenue-based publication of the Center for Analysis of Public Issues, published a piece about New Jersey Monthly, the four-year-old statewide publication headquartered at 1101 State Road. The article documented the recent fall from power of New Jersey Monthly Publisher Hendrix Niemann and Editor-in-Chief Christopher Leach, college roommates at Princeton (Class of '73) and best friends who conceived New Jersey Monthly and oversaw its birth. In recent months both have resigned their positions and now hold only a minority interest in the publication.

According to the account in New Jersey Reporter, the Monthly's problems became acute about a year ago, when it sought new capital to help pay creditors — "More than $100,000 a year was needed to pay interest on bank loans," the Reporter said.

"But the primary investors backing the project apparently had gotten tired of dipping into the well... By January, it was obvious that still more capital was needed. The partnership became a corporation and stock was sold to provide fresh funds. Niemann and Leach retained a controlling 53 percent of the stock and filled five of nine seats on the board of directors."

Sadder, wiser. As debts continued to pile up, the majority interest controlled by the publisher and editor turned into a minority, the New Jersey Reporter stated. Mr. Niemann was voted out of office in March. Mr. Leach resigned August 15.

The shake-up leaves the original founders with 27 percent interest in the magazine, three seats on the board of directors, and apparently a little sadder and a little wiser.

Mr. Leach told Anthony De Palma of New Jersey Reporter that he had two ways to view his fall from power: "One was to be bitter. The other was to say it could have worked out a lot better but didn't. At 28 there are plenty of other things to be done. As experience, nothing could top what we went through."

New Jersey Monthly continues to publish on schedule with Michael Aron serving as editor, as he has for more than two years. A new publisher is expected to be named in September.

New Jersey Reporter's documentation of its fellow publication's difficulties has a minor ironic twist. The Reporter was launched a decade ago with the name New Jersey Magazine, one that the Niemann-Leach undertaking would have preferred when it was conceived. Instead, it was founded as New Jersey Monthly.

As time passed, the latter became more widely recognized, confusion developed among readers and New Jersey Magazine threw in the sponge, declaring that it was weary of fielding telephone calls and mail addressed to it but intended for the other Princeton-based publication. New Jersey Magazine ran a contest asking its readers to suggest a new name. When Kim Drezner of 79 Lovers Lane suggested "New Jersey Reporter," she won a year's subscription and a bottle of champagne.

R & J Turney Motor to Open. Turney Motors has closed its doors but its name lives on in the Princeton area.

R (for Rick) & J (for Jeff) Turney Motor Company will open this week on Route 1, six and one-half miles north of Harrison Street. The owners are Rick Appleby and Jeff Rauch.

The son of Dick Appleby, former owner of Turney Motors here, Rick Appleby had advanced to head mechanic in the repair shop during his eight years at Turney Motors. Jeff Rauch, who became interested in the business when he started racing cars as a hobby, started as a mechanic at Turney more than three years ago before switching to manager of the parts department.

Both he and Rick are fully certified mechanics, Jeff stated. They plan to sell used cars and offer, as Jeff says, "bumper to bumper" service and repair on all makes of foreign and domestic cars.

Jeff reports that they hope to build on their Chrysler Mopar Parts connections and specialize in the repair of all Chrysler Corporation models, but he emphasized they are equipped to service all makes. "We intend to carry the Turney name to Monmouth Junction," said Jeff. Their shop is located just before the Route 1 exit to Sand Hills. "It's six and a half miles north of Harrison Street. I've clocked it," said Jeff. He is a resident of Monmouth Junction, while Rick lives in Dayton.

TAKE ADVANTAGE of the August Doldrums

to put the experienced staff of K.M. LIGHT REAL ESTATE to work for you AUGUST is traditionally a slow month in real estate - with most buyers already decided on their home purchases for the next school year. This year, with the late, slow season in home buying, due to the high, high interest rates, it can be different. Interest rates have come down somewhat, mortgage money is again available, and houses are selling again.

NOW is the time to let us know what you are looking for. Come in, tell us whether you want to find that special home, a real estate investment property - or perhaps a wonderful piece of land. Chances are it is already on our books - or perhaps something we might list tomorrow.

REMEMBER, when we know what you want, we can put you on our list for the first phone calls when that special property becomes available.

DON'T WAIT to see it advertised - It may have been snapped up by some other wise Early Bird!

TV STATION FOR N.J.?

Williams and Bradley Act. In a move to secure a VHF television station for the State of New Jersey, U.S. Senators Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-NJ) and Bill Bradley (D-NJ) will introduce a measure this week which would provide for at least one VHF station in each state.

The Williams-Bradley measure will be submitted as an amendment to S. 2827, the Communications Act Amendments of 1980, which is currently pending before the Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation. The amendment would require that if a VHF station becomes available in a state that already has other VHF stations, the Federal Communications Commission must allocate the available license to a state without a station, if it is technically feasible to do so. New Jersey and Delaware are the only

Regional Schools Given Passing Grades In State-Wide Test of Efficiency Level

Princeton's schools, along with all the other public schools in the state, have received passing marks in New Jersey's first evaluation -- sometimes called "labelling."

State monitors used the results of basic skills tests, the educational plan of a school and compliance with state regulations as criteria.

Princeton Superintendent Paul Houston, who opposes labelling, said this week that there were never any doubts about Princeton.

"Our test scores are in the low-to-mid 90s," he observed. "The only place we could go is down, and there was no anticipation of that. We're conscientious about doing everything we're asked to do, and although the state did cite us for not having a special program for gifted and talented, that was only pro forma."

"Everyone knows Princeton will need minimal help, and it's better to concentrate where help is needed."

states now without commercial VHF stations.

"As has been well documented, people in our state must depend on news from major television stations based in and therefore biased towards New York and Pennsylvania," Sen. Williams said. "To date, unfortunately, the actions taken by the FCC to rectify this problem have been something short of satisfying."

Sen. Williams, Co-Chairman of the New Jersey Coalition for Fair Broadcasting, has worked for the past decade to secure a VHF station for the state. "In the past, the FCC has refused to give our state a VHF station because, in order to do so, it would have had to take a frequency away from an otherwise qualified out-of-state licensee. This obstacle, however, was recently removed," Sen. Bradley said.

Opportunity Exists. Sen. Williams referred to a Commission decision in January to deny license renewal for RKO General, licensee for three major television stations, including Channel 9 in New York.

"With Channel 9 available for relicensing, the FCC has a perfect opportunity to resolve New Jersey's longstanding problem," the Senators noted. "Our amendment would direct the FCC to seize this auspicious opportunity and finally provide a major outlet for news and public information for our state's 8 million residents."

"We want to indicate to the Congress and to the FCC that our intentions to pursue this matter are very serious," the Senators said. "It is quite clear that the existing situation is unfair to the citizens of New Jersey, and it is equally clear that alternative remedies are not the answer."

In the House, Rep. Andrew Maguire (D-7th District), and a number of other New Jersey Congressmen have introduced a similar bill which is before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Earlier this year, the New Jersey senators joined in petitioning the FCC to reallocate Channel 9 from New York to New Jersey. A Commission decision on whether to begin proceedings on the petition is expected within the next few weeks.
